DETAILED ACTION

Comments

This supplemental restriction requirement is being sent to applicant as a result of re-examination of the claimed subject matter upon transferring the application to a different art unit for examination. The previous restriction requirement is withdrawn.

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1-10, drawn to a method for controlling the transcription of target genes.

Group II, claim(s) 11-24, drawn to a method of genetic computing using transcription control by encoding control functions in regulatory DNA sequences.

The inventions listed as Groups I and II do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

While Group II is a method of using or computing control functions in regulatory DNA sequences comprising selecting a relative binding strength and a relative binding position of individual binding sites within a cis-regulatory region of the regulatory DNA sequence to operate as at least one logic function for generating an output upon binding corresponding to a desired gene expression, this encoding method is taught in Kirch et al. [Oncogene, 1999, volume 18, pages 2728-2738] which studies expression of human p53 in that it requires synergistic activation of transcription from the p53 promoter. Specifically, the abstract studies in the role of AP-1 AND NF-kB motif in the human p53 promoter for transcriptional regulation. The study shows that mutation of the AP-1 OR the NF-kB motif abolishes transcription from the human p53 promoters in various cells [see , for instance, abstract of Kirch et al.]. Consequently, mutations at either of the two relative binding positions affects relative binding strength in this cis-regulatory region of DNA operating with the logical functions listed above resulting in desired changes to gene expression.

Consequently, the technical features recited in Group II are not special technical features because they are known in the prior art. As the technical features of the claims of Group II are known in the art, the claims do not recite a special technical feature and the Groups are not linked by a general inventive concept. Since the Groups are not linked by a general inventive concept, they lack unity.

The election of an invention may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected invention.

If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable upon the elected invention.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
